Meetings, Outings, Burrinjuck, and the CFC Presentation Night

The Club will continue to hold meetings at the Croatian Deakin Football Club on the second Tuesday of the month at 6.30 pm. However, we will continue to stream the meetings on Zoom for members who wish to continue observing social distancing during the current pandemic.

We will continue to hold our Outings, although we will continue to apply social distancing precautions with respect to the accommodation arrangements. The Club held its second outing for the Club year at Buckenderra on 22-23 August 2020. Unfortunately, I heard that it was a very quiet weekend.

Our next outing will be at Kalkite on 19-20 September 2020, and then at Talbingo on 10-11 October 2020.

After Talbingo, we were scheduled to host the 46th ANSA Burrinjuck Convention on 6-8 November 2020. Anthony briefed the members at our September 2020 General Meeting on the COVID-19 action plan for the Burrinjuck Convention this year. The plan was created so that the Club can understand the full extent of changes that will be required, and make a decision as to whether we wish to defer the convention this year.

The plan was very comprehensive and I appreciate Anthony's efforts in reading through all the legal requirements in order to create the plan. The club and its members can now make an informed decision.

The key points are that we can only run an uncatered convention, members will need to volunteer as COVID Marshalls, there will be limited social interactions between ANSA members due to social distancing requirements, and the Club's best case financial outcome is to break even.

If we cancel this year's event, the Manager of Burrinjuck Waters Reflections Holiday Park advised that everyone's bookings and deposits will be transferred to next year.

The decision was put to the attending members of the club and the members voted 15 - 1 in favour of deferring Burrinjuck Convention until next year.

If you wish to raise any concerns around this decision, please send an email to secretary@canberrafishos.com by 21 September 2020.

Finally, date is yet to be set for the Club's annual presentation night. Given the current circumstances, one option being considered by the Committee is to hold COVID safe presentations at the Christmas Party. I hope to have more news on this in my next report.

In the meantime, keep safe on the water

Recorder's Report

First thing I'd like to do in my first Recorder's Report is to thank John Bosch for all his efforts in the Recorder's role over the last 7 years – he's left some mighty big boots to fill.

The 2020-21 fishing year started well, with all members attending the July outing to Kioloa coming home with at least one fish. The weather was windy and the seas were pretty big, but the beach turned it on for us, with members lining up along the beach for some Australian Salmon action.

I was still hanging out for some bluewater action, so I headed up to South West Rocks for a few weeks of therapy. It was not the best time of year to go up there, but there were a few fish around, including Yellowtail Kingfish and Mack Tuna on lures; Longtail Tuna on livebaits and rays on baits (if you can't get the exact location of the reef sorted).

As it turned out, I was up North for the Buckenderra Outing, but apparently didn't miss much – for the first time in a while, there were no fish caught.

The next Club outing is to Kalkite on the 19-20 September. The last time I went to a Kalkite outing, I managed a 'grand-slam' – all four species of salmonoids on the one weekend (Brown, Rainbow and Brook Trout and an Atlantic Salmon). I'm really looking forward to this one! See you there!

Keep the capture forms rolling in.

Fishing news and competitions

Preparing and cooking Australian Salmon

By Anthony Heiser

By the time this newsletter gets published, the new Club Year would have well and truly begun! With the new Club Year comes the new Total Length Species for Salt and Fresh Water. The target species for this year's Saltwater Total Length Competition is Australian Salmon (Arripis trutta). Trutta is Latin for Trout. Australian Salmon is also known as Kahawai in New Zealand.

Despite the common name, Australian Salmon are not related to the salmon family Salmonidae of the Northern Hemisphere, but belong to the order Perciformes of perch-like fishes. Australian salmon were named so by early European settlers after their superficial resemblance to the salmoniform fishes. In terms of taste and texture, Australian Salmon have little in common with salmoniform fishes. Which leads to my next point – while I am a big fan of the fighting qualities of Australian Salmon, I was not, until recently, a big fan of their culinary qualities.

However, a couple of articles on the ABC News website in May 2016 bemoaning the lack of public enthusiasm for Australian Salmon lead me to a new tip: soak Australian Salmon fillets in milk before cooking them. I caught some nice Australian Salmon off Wairo Beach at the July Outing and tried soaking the fillets in milk for an hour in the fridge. I then cooked some of the fillets into fish cakes and crumbed and fried some of the fillets.

I must say, soaking the fillets in milk resulted in some of the sweetest and clean tasting crumbed fish I've eaten in a long time.

Apparently, fish contains a compound called trimethylamine oxide (or TMAO for short). TMAO is odourless and regulates proteins in fish – for example, it counteracts urea in Sharks and Rays and counteracts the protein-destabilizing effects of pressure in deep-sea fish and crustaceans.

After a fish dies, TMAO degrades into trimethylamine (TMA) which gives seafood that 'fishy' smell. Soaking fish fillets in milk for 30 to 60 minutes apparently does two things: it softens the fish (making it less chewy) and the milk binds with TMA and removes it from the fish (making it less 'fishy').

So based on what I've learnt recently, I recommend bleeding your Australian Salmon immediately upon capture and then keeping it in an ice slurry to slow down the rate at which TMAO degrades into TMA. Fillet the fish as soon as possible after fishing and skin the fillets, removing as much of the red meat as possible (if you don't like wasting the red offcuts, you can cook them in boiling water and then feed them to your cats). Then soak the fillets in milk for 30 to 60 minutes.

Unfortunately, this technique does not seem to work as effectively when defrosting frozen Australian Salmon fillets. However, it does make a great difference on fresh fillets and here are a couple of recipes you can try.

Australian Salmon Fish Cakes

Ingredients

- 500 g Australian Salmon
- 500 g Potatoes (with jacket on is ok)
- 40 g Coriander
- 150 g Onion
- 80 g Thai Season paste
- 1-2 Eggs
- Lemon Pepper
- Salt and Pepper
- Breadcrumbs
- Plain Flour
- Oil
- Butter

This is a recipe I adapted from my Mum's fish cake recipe for tinned tuna or tinned Red Salmon.

I usually go half and half with the Australian Salmon and Potatoes and then do as I please with the remaining ingredients but the ingredients I've listed here should give you a guide. Mum uses tinned tuna and uses ginger instead of Thai Season Paste.

Boil the potatoes and mash. Don't overcook the potatoes or mash them to a pulp. Cook chopped onions on fry pan with oil Dice the salmon and season with garlic, lemon pepper and Thai seasoning and put in boiling water and take out as soon as it is cooked. Drain salmon and put in bowl and break up into small pieces with a fork. Then mix with mashed potato and onions and add some bread crumbs so the mixture isn't too sloppy. Add salt and pepper to taste.

When the mixture has cooled down a bit, grab a hand full of mixture, roll into a ball and then flatten. Coat the rissole in flour, then dunk in egg and coat with bread crumbs. Heat oil in fry pan and add a little butter and heat up the grill.

Cook each side of the rissole in the fry pan to get the golden colour. Then place rissoles on tray and place in grill to fully cook it.

Thai Fish Cakes

Ingredients

- 450 g Australian Salmon fillets with the red bits removed and diced.
- ¼ cup corn flour
- 1 tablespoon of fish sauce
- 3 tablespoons of fresh coriander (or you can use as much as you like)
- 3 teaspoons of Thai Red Curry Paste
- 2 teaspoons of fresh red chillies (or more if you like)
- 2 spring onions finely chopped
- Sweet chilli sauce or other dipping sauce for serving.

Process the fish in a blender for 20 seconds or until smooth.

Then add the cornflour, fish sauce, coriander, curry paste, and chillies and blend for a further 20 to 30 seconds.

Transfer to a bowl and mix in the spring onions.

With wet hands, make roundish patties using two tablespoons of mixture per pattie.

Cook the pattie in a fry pan with oil on medium-low heat until golden brown on both sides.

Drain oil off patties on a paper towel and serve with sweet chilli sauce.

Smoked Australian Salmon fillets

Ingredients

- Salmon fillets with skin on
- Maple syrup
- Salt

This is a pretty simple recipe I got from Steve Samuels when I was trying to find out how to smoke trout. This recipe seems to work very well on Australian Salmon although I was not too impressed when I tried it on Tailor.

I like to season my fillets with plenty of crushed salt and then brush generous amounts of maple syrup over the fillets. I assume most people know how to smoke fish either in their smoker or on their barbecue.

If you don't have a smoker, you can probably use your barbecue to smoke the fish. I have a gas barbecue with a lid and I place a metal tray of wood chips from Barbecues Galore over the flame and under the grill side of hot plate. Once the wood chips are smoking, I just place the fillets skin side on the other side of the hot plate and close the lid for 15 minutes and they're cooked.

Poached Snapper with bacon and mushrooms

Anthony Heiser

This is a recipe I discovered in the 1990s when I lived in Brisbane. This works well on Snapper, but it worked even better on reef fish from the seafood markets in Queensland.

I would not normally use bacon and mushrooms with seafood, but it works with this dish. I remember the first time I cooked this – my brother who was not known for eating fish, could not stop eating it.

I no longer have the recipe but cooked it up recently from memory. Which means I don't have precise measurements for the ingredients.

Ingredients

- Whole snapper (or reef fish)
- Butter
- Parsley
- Dill
- 1 clove of crushed garlic
- Bacon
- Mushrooms

Clean the Snapper and season with salt and pepper.

Chop the parsley, dill, bacon and mushrooms.

Fry the chopped bacon in a fry pan until it crisps. Then add the mushrooms, parsley, dill and garlic and butter. Cook until the mushrooms soften.

Insert the mushroom mixture inside the cavity of the Snapper and on top of the Snapper. Then wrap the Snapper in baking paper (seal tight) and bake in oven at 180° C until cooked.

A cooking thermometer is very handy – saves you from unwrapping the fish to check. Unwrapping the fish to check if it's cooked risks losing the juices cooking the fish.

When cooked, place the wrapped fish into a dish and carefully unwrap. Be careful not to spill the juices. Serve whole and let everyone pick off tasty morsels off the fish. Also, have some bread handy to soak up the juices.

Total Length Award species for 2020-21

The Total Length Awards bring on healthy competition from the ranks of the CFC and for 2020-21, the target species are Australian Salmon for the Saltwater section and European Carp for the Freshwater Section. The new target species applies from 1 July 2020.

The target species for the 2020-21 fishing year are:

Saltwater section: Australian Salmon

Freshwater section: European Carp

How many metres can you catch?

July & August 2020 Photo Competition

To everyone who submitted entries for the July and August photo comp, thank you. It took me a little while to work out how to create a new gallery on our website and a new menu for the 2020-21 Newsletters. There has not been much activity on Facebook of late either, as I got a little preoccupied in Brisbane last August looking after my Mum who had been unwell and in hospital. I'm now back in Canberra and I finally have the gallery for 2020-21 up on the website with our first winner for 2020-21.

Please send me your photos.

- Members can submit up to two photos per month.
- Photo comp entries can be submitted via the website, the Club email address (info@canberrafishos.com) or anthony.heiser@bigpond.com or via SMS to 0402 560 880.
- Acceptance of photo comp entries submitted by other means is at my discretion – please don't make it too hard for me to access your photo comp entries.
- The photo must either be taken by the member submitting the photo or a photo of the member holding their capture.
- Minor image corrections and cropping is allowed provided this does not lead to misleading or fraudulent alteration or manipulation of the photo.
- The Committee reserves the right to exclude any entries it suspects has been subject to misleading or fraudulent alteration or manipulation.
